

Richard L. Hudson

Journalist, author and editor in science and technology topics.

---

Professional

www.sciencebusiness.net

2004 to date
London/Brussels
Science Business Publishing Ltd.

Editor-in-Chief, Vice Chair of the Board, Co-founder

- Conceived, founded and launched a novel European media and communications company focused on research and innovation investment and policy. Devised a new business model based on support from some of the biggest institutions in R&D - in industry, academia and policy. Raised capital from private investors.
- Successfully managed start-up's growth, through a succession of community-building new products in online news, exclusive conferences, and sponsored communications. Served as CEO & Editor from 2004 to June 2016; current position from that date.
- Applied editorial skills to design news products for Science|Business, edit and co-author news magazines and other publications, and manage a daily electronic news service for 19,000 registrants. In addition, managed and edited numerous magazines, special reports and other publications for company clients, including the European Commission, European Research Council, CERN, Microsoft, BP and Sanofi.

1997-2003
The Wall Street Journal Europe
Brussels

Managing Editor

- No. 2 news executive at European edition of The Wall Street Journal. Functioned as COO, with news staff of 104 across Europe.
- Helped re-launch newspaper in February 2000, pioneering a new, color design. Editorial project manager for the initiative. Named "Business Journal of the Year" at annual UK press awards.
- Conceived and managed major expansion of European technology coverage – in a new, daily section of the newspaper. Organized technology conferences.
- Managed several new projects: Weekend section, Personal Journal section, planning and installation of new content-management system.

The Wall Street Journal Europe

1995-1996
The Wall Street Journal Europe
London

Technology Editor

- Created and managed daily technology-news page
- Conceived and launched quarterly technology supplement, Convergence

1978-1994
The Wall Street Journal
Washington, Philadelphia, London

Staff Reporter

- From London, covered technology industries across Europe. Reported on Chernobyl, nuclear power, growth of the IT and telecoms industries, birth of the bio and Internet industries.

